

What we know about standard deviation:

- it only works for data that is approx. normal
- starting at the mean and go one standard deviation to the left and one standard deviation to the right and it takes up 68% or about $\frac{2}{3}$ of the data
- the letter is "s"
- it is a distance
- it is used to describe the variability in the distribution

